

thing.

style guide.

thing.

brnd values.

- timelessness.
- impact .
- community.
- sufficiency.

site's purpose.

- provide customers with understanding of our purpose.
- help them navigate our essntls. as well
as our new arrivls.
- provide customers with understanding of our materials and care instructions.
- show perks of being a mmbr. to get people singed up .
- outfitting built in, so customers will shop
wardrobes before pieces.

audience.

thing.

- teens, adults .

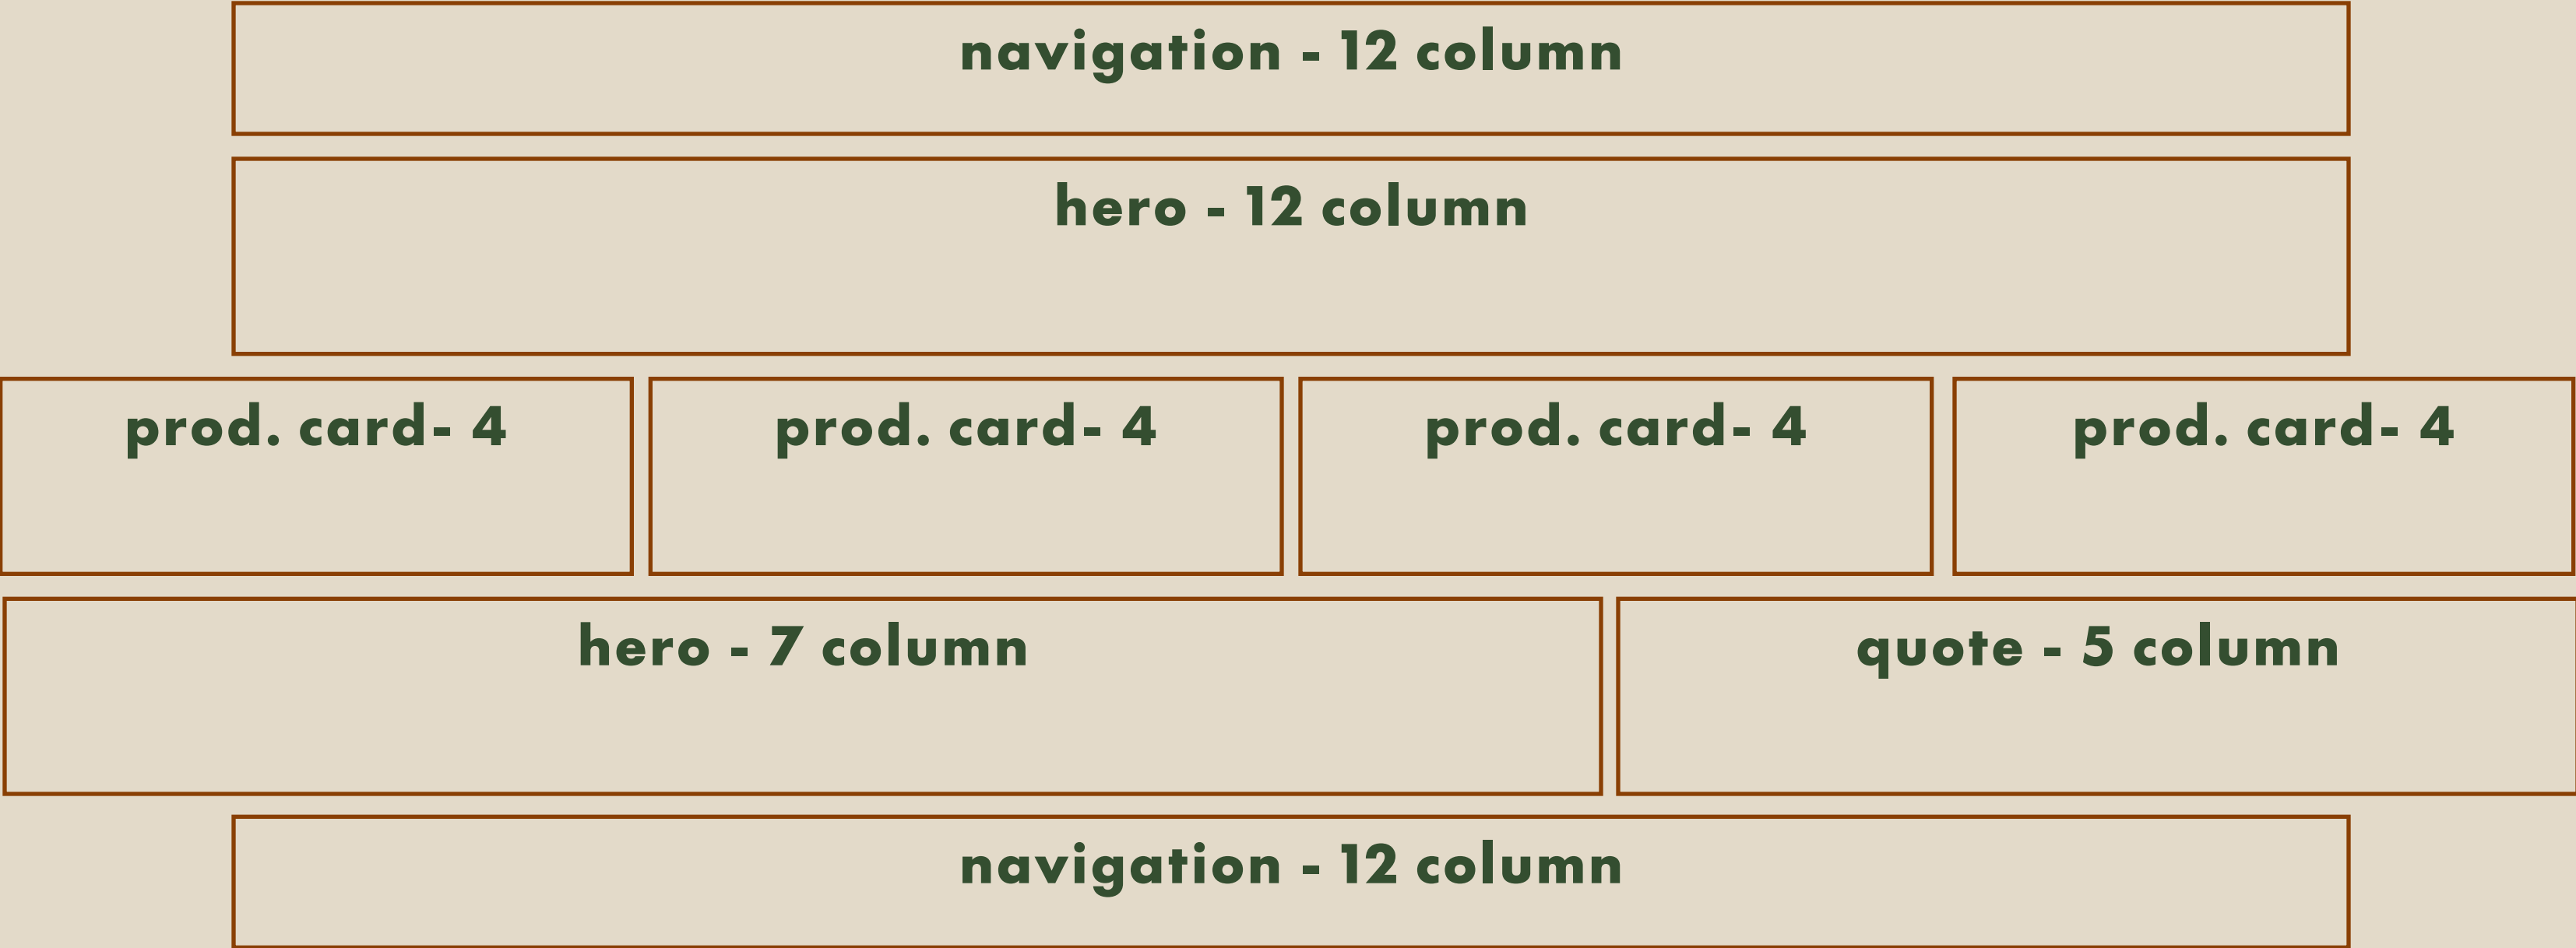

- younger adults who are seeking impactful clothing, that feels good, looks good, and does good.

- anyone who likes good clothes.

site's grd.

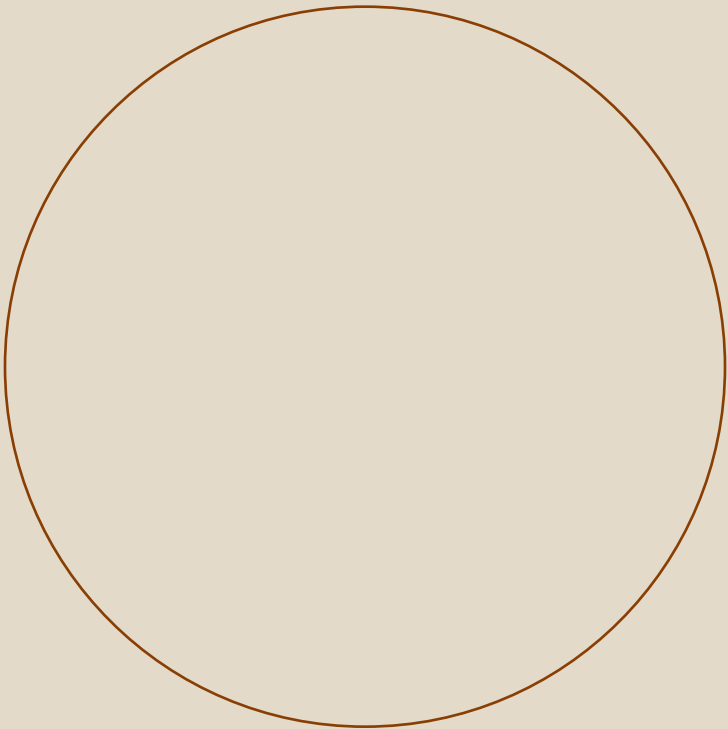

12 columns-max width 1280px.

thing.

color pltt.

thing.

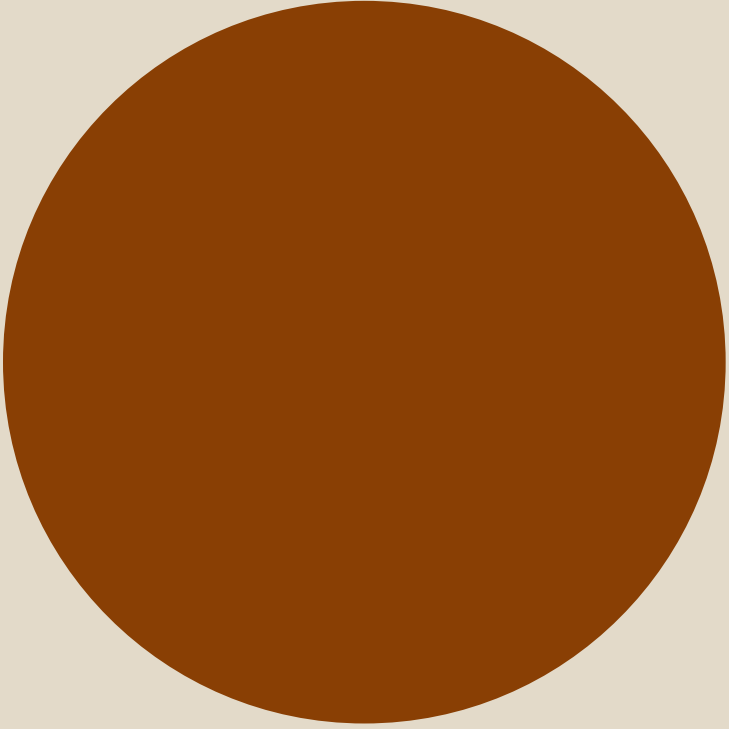

background.

bone. - #E3DAC9

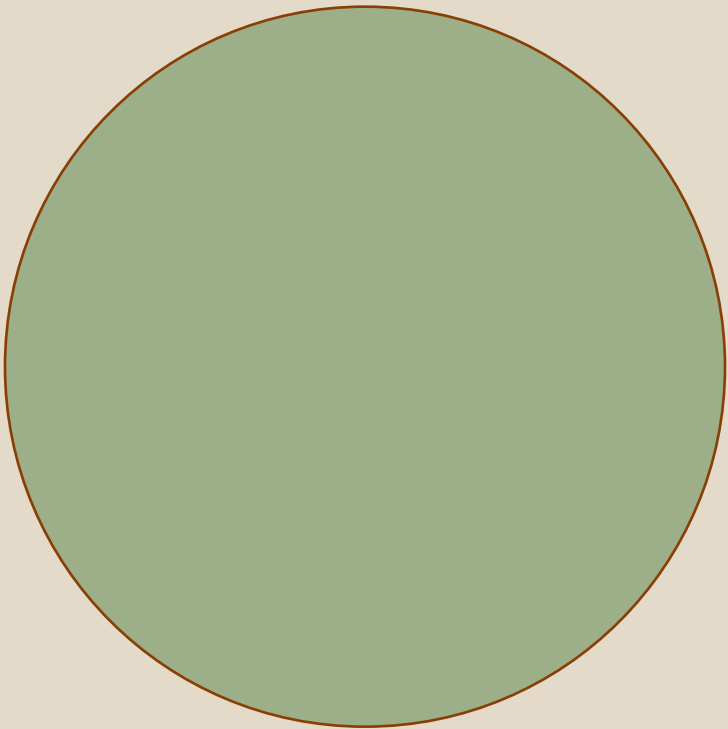

text

forest. - #344E41

highlight/border.

primary.

main color.

sage. - #9CAF88

terracotta. - #893f04

secondary.

tertiary.

typography.

thing.

the seasons.

- informative.
- mission/value pages.
- more “formal” for more serious pages/topics.

FUTURA®100.

- casual.
- friendly.
- main page/shopping pages.
- product descriptions.

hyerarchy.

- titles: 150 px
- subtitles: 80 px
- topics: 40px
- paragraphs: 25px
- leading: 40px./tracking: 30px.

logo usage.

thing

approved logos.

thing.

min. size: 60px x 60px.

30px margins for website.

place on light background.

no recoloring, stretching, or effects of any kind.

spacing.

thing.

XS — 4px

icon gaps, tight label spacing.

S — 8px

between related items, button padding.

M — 16px

card padding, between elements in a group.

L — 24px

between cards, grid gutters.

XL — 48px

between page sections.

2XL — 80px

hero padding, major section breathing room.

3XL — 120px

top/bottom of hero section.

site elements/asset rules. thing.

- icons: 8px by 8px
- no form input, only buttons and imagery
- one large focus image on the hero, smaller images for “categories” on product cards
- mission and debrief pages keep text only, images reserved for the actual page
- keep icons clean and on-brand, as opposed to big bright stuff
- keep information/graphics as for a purpose, not performative